HOW TO USE YOUR NOTEBOOK

This is your space

What you write here is private unless you choose to share it.
There's no right way to use this notebook, take what feels useful, skip what doesn't, and come back whenever you need.

Download and save your copy

Download your notebook and save it somewhere you'll easily find again. You might like to keep one blank copy and a second copy for writing in.

Write directly into it

Click or tap into the spaces and start typing. Write a little or a lot. Skip questions, return to them later, or leave them unanswered, it's completely up to you.

Save as you go

Remember to save your PDF regularly so you don't lose anything you've written.

Mac: Command + S
Windows: Ctrl + S

Come back anytime

This notebook doesn't need to be completed in one sitting. Reopen your saved copy whenever you want to keep writing, revisit an answer, or notice what's changed.

One important note

When saving your working copy, avoid using "Print to PDF." This can flatten the file and make your notebook no longer editable.

We all have things we've been meaning to do.

Some are big dreams. Others are little things we've been putting off for ages. Places we'd love to visit. People we'd like to see. Things we'd like to try. Words we've been meaning to say.

This notebook is a place to write them all down.

There's no right or wrong way to use it. No deadlines and no pressure to do everything.

And when you finally get around to something, turn to the second section and write about how it worked out.

Because sometimes the smallest things make the best stories.

That turned out better than expected.

Not quite what I'd imagined!

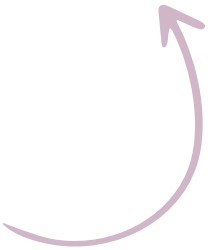

What I finally did...

And here's what happened...

Is There Something You're Glad ou Did?

And what next?

There's always something else we've been meaning to do.

Another place to visit. Another person to see. Another conversation to have. Another little adventure waiting to happen.

And perhaps something in these pages has reminded you of something else.

So, what are you waiting for?
